Kasparov Interview

The October 15 issue of Time contained a two page interview with Gary Kasparov. When asked about the recent increase in chess computer strength, and the chances of a computer one day becoming World Champion, Kasparov had this to say: "I still believe human beings will beat the computer. I don't know if I'll be able to do it in five years, because of the amount of energy I will have. But even a very powerful computer will be programmed by human beings, which means another human will have to find a serious strategy. I am sure about the human future of chess. We are safe ... The computer will probably beat all players except one or two. World champions bring a new vision of chess, and all others follow. We understand that in the future something new will be brought to chess, and the computer will not be able to use it."

World Championship Match

After four games the score stands at 2 1/2 - 1 1/2 in favour of current World Champion Garry Kasparov over his challenger, former World Champion Anatoly Karpov. The first game was a quick draw but the second witnessed a slashing attack by Kasparov. 25.Bxh6!! introduced a brilliant combination in which White surrendered two minor pieces for a R and P and initiative. The third and fourth games have each seen Karpov win material but Kasparov's ingenious combinative play has saved the day in both cases.

A Request to Organizers

Re: rating reports:

When submitting your tournaments for rating take special care in recording the CFC numbers of the participants. Also, if your event has more than one section, it is very important that you submit each section as a separate event with the players listed consecutively and starting with number 1. This will ensure that the crosstables appear correct. Failure to follow these guidelines always causes trouble. For example, it might happen that the winner of the booster section with 5/5 appears at the top of the crosstable ahead of Brian Hartman, say, with 4 1/2! Then you and we look ridiculous.
